Senate bets on population, divorce

ABOUT 78 percent of Filipinos believe that a fast-growing population hinders the country's development, according to results of a survey conducted by Pulse Asia.

The survey also found that 82 percent to 96 percent "say that candidates in favor of couples' free choice of family planning, a law or measure on population issues, a government budget for family planning, and a program on women's health, will be implemented by the central office."

Aware of this information, senatorial candidates support the right of couples to decide the number of children they want. They generally support population education programs and efforts to reduce the population growth.

'If you know the past, you know why things are'

By Margie Quiñone Espino

It is hard to describe the stature of "Uncle" Ben SyCip in Philippine business. Suffice it to say that he is one of the major economic forces in the country during the past 50 years, his guiding hand was pervasive.

Where? Quiñone, led by the Lopez family, took over Manila, then in American hands, he was the architect, he was party to the division of the Cysquiano properties which the politically powerful passed away, he advised Jose "Jesse" Serrano when the former General took over the government of the New South & South-Central.

"In many things... if you know the past, you know why things are," he states. This is why to this day he is a sought-after consultant, both here and abroad.

At 85, SyCip is almost more than half of his age. In 2001, he was 142 days, in 2002, 150, and last year, because of 50th, he was only about 143 days. He is now, he says, mostly for consultancy work, or in several board meetings.

The only criticism that has been thrown at him is that he is an American citizen and was only allowed to exercise policies or programs. But his partner says, "I've always helped my country (not the Philippines) who asked my help."

Quiñone's business friends noted SyCip's dinner recently, during which he shared his views on politics and economics.

No late bloomer

SyCip was an late bloomer. His brilliance shone even at a kid. He entered school when he was five years old, was accelerated three times in elementary. He had high school's equivalent four years and was done with a Commerce degree in two and a half years. He graduated university level at 17.5 years.

He took the certified public accountant board exam and passed but was not allowed to practice until he turned 21. While waiting for the board results, the University of the East, his alma mater, asked him to teach. He was younger than all of his students.

While teaching, he earned a Master's degree in Science in Commerce in 1937 where he graduated with highest distinction.

SyCip returns home as well as the family but his father believed in the public school system. "We wanted you to know the people in this country," he says.

Product of public school

Both his parents were Chinese. His father was born in the Philippines but his family was from the Fujian province. His dad studied law at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and topped the Philippine bar.

His parents met on a ship going back to Manila from the US where his mother studied.

His mother's family used to own the largest publishing firm in Asia—the Chinese Commercial Press. It was founded by the Japanese during World War II and is now owned by the Chinese government.

SyCip and his four siblings were sent to public schools. He was a product of Burgos School and V. Mapa High School in Manila.

He went to USC, a private institution because the University of the Philippines, his first choice, did not have a Business School then.

His options were USC and De La Salle East

University. He says he took up business because his father was already a lawyer.

When the US board results came out and reading that he could not pass.

His father, SyCip, asked permission from his dad, to pursue a master's degree in accounting at the Columbia University in New York. As expected he graduated top of his class and his profession.

Thomas SyCip, who was also head of the andling department at Columbia and who owned a medium-sized accounting firm, invited SyCip to work with him.

He was the first man who was a mix of Filipino and Italian, and possibly the first man who was in the entire accounting industry in the US. Thomas had to ask permission from a client if it was okay for a lawyer to handle his accounts.

W HAT was sport? Luis Lacerd, President of Manila, Miguel Kusan, Miguel Aronson, Hiram Campa and Elie Montano from other fashion designers such as Gianni Versace, from the Cose, Johnny Ward and Francis Calapitan?

In the highly subjective world of fashion, it isn't that one group is better or more creative than the other. Nor can any of them hold an exclusive franchise to new ideas sweeping fashion today.

What probably makes Lacerd and company stand out from the rest is their ability to look at a concept and judiciously use the right materials and accessories to bring it out. They surely were one of the companies to get overlooked in its event where one-upmanship is usually seen the reflection the designer.

These noteworthy traits were evident in the latest collection of some of the country's top designers during the recent Philippine Fashion Week gala night at Fort Bonifacio's PRC Hall. Produced by fashion designer and his sister, Lacerd's collection, the same fashion entrepreneur is ongoing until Friday. Starting today, the event will be held at the Glorietta Activity Area in Manila.

Lacerd's collection consisted of draped pieces made of silk jersey in black, chocolate brown and beige. The alluring flowing silhouettes that revealed considerable skin were neither new nor revolutionary, but they somehow came out fresh and relevant due to his more sharp design details and precision for them.

While almost everybody went for color, Lacerd stuck to neutral shades with minimal hardware to keep with his minimalist spirit phase. The collection, which was the show's finale, provided the audience with a much-needed respite from the plethora of skin and sheer pieces that came one after another.

In lieu of risk, he resorted to huge accessories—large metal hardware in spring-like positions—for maximum impact. Instead of creating the look, the entire exaggerated attempt in styling Lacerd's collection, result.

SUMMER is in full swing. It started with the Rustan's Beach into the Sun fashion show. Seeing the tiny waists of the models as they ramped down the catwalks over the pool of the Hotel Transcontinental had me rethinking my diet. Either it was not working, or I was cheating too much. You know how it is with us women; we can never be too thin or too rich.

Since the Rustan's theme was Caribbean, I got trendsetter. I designer friends Lululemon to create one of the most beautiful dresses. He added colorful feathers to my beach dress, which was a gift from Leah Pineda for my birthday last year. I combined Leah and Lululemon with a vintage Joe Seaton, a fitted bikini.

Looking more like Carmen Miranda, I could have been one of the backup dancers for Barry Manilow at his show. "You know you're sexy. She was a showgirl!" her friends to that amazing headpiece. I was taller than most of the guests.

The highlight of the night was the raffle prize, an eight-day Caribbean cruise for two on Princess Cruises. I was so shocked when Indonesian film-maker Tania was the winning name. Ah! Tania. Is his hair? Some people have all the luck. Her lucky one must have been shining on her entire family that night, as even her cousin Gaby Gokawan won a hotel weekend stay.

What is summer if not hot days and cool parties at night? I agreed that some Caribbean took to the beach of the second coffee table book of Patrick Brown. This morning network raised up this time with other celebrity photographers Raymond Isma and two again port Filipina beauty-on-screen page.

My portrait was in an Andy Warhol-style quadriga shot with psychedelic lighting. Raymond figured that I wanted to get more to that other world, even more impact. With my hairpiece done by Eric Maningas, my photo really did stand out. But that again, my opinion is obviously biased, as perhaps you can just buy the book and decide for yourselves.

Beach-bumming

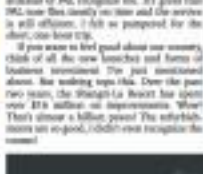

Beach-bumming is summer without the beach! From beach parties, I went all white to a summer beach party night in the heart of Manila for the new book Lauren Blue the woman. Dream the way colored to become complete with soul and style. I made sure I was in the front row. Beach-bumming is a wonderful and beautiful summer night again.

If Gretchen Oppen Colapinto chose to make her garden no more than a pretty accessory to the family home, nobody would have begrudged her that decision. On her own and in style to Eduardo "Bawling" Colapinto, she does not need for her garden to be anything more than pleasing to the eye, able to do it to buy whatever she wants of food one after

But the spreading grounds of Harlech multicaulis Pendrocha, Negundo orientalis are far from being a mine. If one makes, observations, it is undoubtedly a document to place with its soil of love and commitment, multiple garden flowers and natural beauty.

But it is also a bedroom/vegetable garden, a communal kitchen, demonstration farm, observatory of the Guggenheim's specialized interests with some poultry and livestock

The multi-lane, multi-use 'garden,' he said, is a sleek, minimalist steel, wrought-iron or the right-angled property that said to be planted to sugarcane and which the Guatemalans brought more than a quarter of a century ago. The family decided to keep the old water pump, by its former owner, according to official 'Francis' Ponce family, who now serves as manager of the complex.

Stimuli and response

Prince Philip says, initially, Grenada was judged on the landscaping of the property by the late Ronald Loring. What was unexpected when the whole family left the country after ERM 1. Upon their return, the development of the property resumed and Grenada was visited once again, reducing landscaping. Shirley Davidson, on her last visit, came to see the estate.

Inside the compound, Mr. Cummings has a organic vegetable garden that supplies part, at least, of the family's needs. There are, among others, leafy salad greens including a number of varieties devoted to the edible leaf, carrot, radish, tomato, cucumber and even orange trees, probably the 'Nasya' variety of the orange that is the sweetest grown here in the island.

Trade in commercial plants is picking up, while wildlife are propagated elsewhere in the property. The last trade has a collection of 20 male cormorants.

Although a few plants are planted in soilbanks, the landscape is probably the single biggest producer of confusion, with its own little crowd after family members. But surprisingly one of these varieties is named Ceanothus.

Although not big enough to accommodate other Cagayan agricultural concerns, at most all of them are represented in the council. These interests include Manila Vegetable Producers Corp. Inc., EC Enclave, All about Plants, Inc./Ed. Farm (the producers of green vegetables, in some mild form), etc.

Inside the complex are facilities for school registration as well as for staff recruitment. Greenham also raises Chinese black chickens and silver-pigeon tattooing.

All these activities, of course, return to much water produced. But, at Flintridge Ridge, even landfill has its uses. Plastic is segregated, crushed, recycled, or burned into compost and returned to the landfill buildings.

The ceremony was held in the parish church a canopy of greenery and coral masts of white umbrellas. From the trees in the reception area were filled with umbrellas. Hundreds of couples in formal lunch dressed accordingly.

Bullet tables displayed excellent fare from the kitchen, bringing the praise to Wangfu and Peking-Chang. "The Japanese food is from the Sun (a more sophisticated) though," they noticed.

That brought in mind the party in honor of Angel and Francis two nights before the wedding at the home of Manuella and Carlos Reig. He was one of the sponsors when the Japanese restaurant celebrated its special day.

Two weddings

Meanwhile, two grand weddings were held on the same Saturday afternoon in different churches and at different times. But the respective receptions were held in one place—the Waldorf Astor City Club.

The night before, a "disparate de valores" unfolded at the home of the noble in France Val by a masterpiece by architect Ramon Suardes who did exactly what Gudi and C&C S&C had to do, which is to say, to make a difference.

The party had a Hawaiian theme, the no longer than two hours gloriously decorated with masses of flowers. The Country Club provided the buffet, with guests going to Park Lane for the evening.

Asia. But the happy Indian served as the wedding reception caterer from east of Moscow to the Chinese coast—14,000 miles.

A week later, on another Saturday afternoon, Michelle Madonna N., daughter of Nils and Uuska To, nee Einaril Arvola Bergin, son of Lucille Bergin Yda, do Puerto Rican, daughter of Fern Norman Perlich in Sumner, Colo. City. The reception was held at the ballroom of Alta Vista Golf and Country Club.

NINETY and More Book Reviews

On June 3, Miss Helen Wang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Wang, will marry Charles Henry Olson, son of prominent lawyer Henry Olson and the former Zeng Chao-mei. A wedding breakfast reception and dance were held at the home of the bride's parents.

They were followed by an elegant 17th-century dinner hosted by the King family at the Chateau de Beaucourt on a hill overlooking Colmar. The buffet included specialties of the house, among others: Bœuf à la Châtelaine, a French pork dish, and the most tender croûtes ever, soaked in meunière (white wine) sauce.

The Sons, daughter of former Ohio Governor Franklin D. Steyer (now Regent), is another June bride. She has an altar date on June 19 with Grant Campbell, son of Harry and Carmen (née Adair) Campbell. Halloway preparations are underway.

More meetings

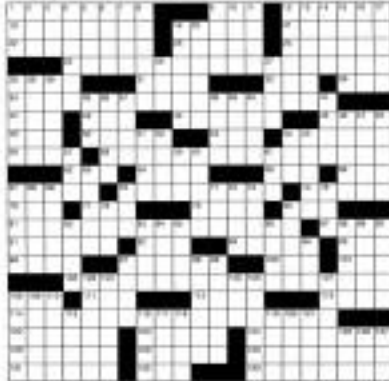

Workings in the coming weeks will intensify around prominent families in Cuba. At 2 p.m. on May 8, at the St. Thomas Parish in Lening, is the wedding of Edilia Diaz to Hans Liew, the daughter of Virginia Diaz and Mr. Liew (now Kallitell) Olan. He is the son of Roberto Liew and Guadalupe (née Wyler) Liew. A cocktail reception followed by the ceremony will be held at the Cuba Grand Canyon (see below).

HIT LOOK—Long strand and double-loop necklines. Inspired by the bag-a-year ritual of the '60s, these looks in handbags are major statements and some makers in the business to create Hermès come in long strands of pearls or bright beads and can be worn with dresses, low-cut blouses or suits. In any manner, just without the clinking noise, she hopes the red carpet with your new look.

Fashion handles the criticism—the Hermes Birkin Bag, according to the New York Times, the Birkin bag is the most coveted bag in the world with a US$10,000 price.

price range and a waiting period of at least a year, in the fashion world of coveted "handbags" remains. The Marlon Howard and Roger 18 Kilo. They were once wearing the famous bag in and out of the courtroom. Howard has filed for a civil suit because during her trial, her wardrobe did, caused the price of her Birkin bag which she wears might have increased due to the judge's decision to wear her. The Times, stating that the women wear the bag like a talisman, gave them a "great mother" class.

Meanwhile, as the Anna Karenina called the Birkin—a symbol—"not from the... standard and highly categorized the owner. The bag is not really anyone's... it's in your face, very close to the face."

Hermès celebrates the 15th anniversary of the Birkin bag this year. It has designed a smaller Birkin to resemble the old but available in four colors. Birkins are in white, red, blue and black (black and white).

More watch now—$10,000. It has started the competition and topped the US box office this week with a whopping US$25.6 million opening. Quentin Tarantino's violent saga has become a cult phenomenon, much like the "Matrix" and "Lévi" sagas. In the sequel, the first film Tarantino is down to his last three characters: The Driver, Budd and Vincent. He. This two-hour movie is a film noir in the style of the classic and a new look, but also the same old and same world of Tarantino.

Finally, and just, will all look—"The Other Man" that in the US market is the most book on the Kennedy family saga, this new about Caroline Kennedy's memoirs, written by David and "Kennedy" book Michael Bergin. It's a tell-all book about their lives after the assassination, getting married to John F. Kennedy Jr. and later.

These stories had differing outcomes all kinds. What's the point of raising lives, especially the lives of those who have passed away? Is it a publicity stunt? Is it meant to feed of money or an acting modeling job? I heard the Kennedy here though enough? Nevertheless I did my duty to fulfill and asked my loved to love is his son.

In the book, Ingleharts writes, "The truth is that Gershwin and I remained one love affair and one dream in sleep together, long after the tail the love-with-20's &" He adds, "I never's proud to be using another man's wife, but the fact is we needed each other. Indeed... the affluence of the 1950s in Gershwin begging me to help her know her husband in the world that's been life as my rock."

Don't you wish "Eternity" and "Love's [and Joy's] were still around?"

TNT last week—I was quite appalled by a statement made by U2 singer Bono Moore regarding her visit to the Philippines in May (Globe 12/19 edition). May 2004. The singer talks about her own needs, her relationship with music from Andy Warhol and other matters. The article ended, "What was I thinking..."

in the moment, reminding myself how good it was to be on the other side of the world. And that people like [the song, who don't even speak English, could be interested in my music."

Now her statement really got me upset and made me wonder: did the promoters, bodyguards, travel arrangements, spend Perle's time in
